

STRIKE

OF ANTHRACITE MINERS BRINGS BLOODSHED

AND SPECIAL DEPUTIES HAVE BEEN SWORN IN.

A TEN YEAR OLD BOY IS SHOT.

Which Diverts the Bitter Anger of the Miners Against the Coal and Iron Police.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 6.—The quiet and peaceful conditions that have characterized the strike of the anthracite miners the past month have at last given way to riotous scenes and bloodshed. The armed coal and iron police whose presence at all the collieries throughout the region is complained of as unwarranted by President John Mitchell, of the union, drew the first blood in the struggle last night and the feeling against these guards of the operators' property is intensely bitter today.

The shooting down of ten year old Charles McCann at the Stanton colliery of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company last night has roused the strikers to a desperate stage of anger and from now on the authorities anticipate turbulent scenes. Young McCann is in the Mercy hospital today in a serious condition from the bullet wound in the back near the shoulder blade, inflicted by one of the four coal and iron policemen now under arrest.

These men are Thomas O'Brien, Edward Ames, Wm. Thiemich and John Narr. All arrived from Philadelphia yesterday and were armed and sworn in as special officers to protect the Stanton mine. An effort will be made to extract the bullet from McCann's back today, and at the hospital it is said that his chances for recovery are about even.

Today it is explained that the boy with a party of young companions, were trying to tear down the barricade that surrounds the Stanton mine and one of the policemen shot him down while standing within an arms' reach of him.

Hundreds of frenzied men and women gathered about the barricade when the news of the shooting had spread and the police were compelled to resort to stratagem to land the four coal and iron policemen in the station. Two hundred angry men, believing the prisoners would be brought to the city hall, stood about the place from 3 o'clock until 1, with the evident intention of inflicting injury upon the special guards when they arrived. The police anticipating this, drove directly to the station and the prisoners were landed there in safety.

More trouble occurred at the Stanton this morning. A coal and iron policeman was stopped by a party of strikers who begged him to give up his commission and desert the colliery. He drew his pistol from his pocket and ordered the crowd to stand back or he would shoot to kill. A city policeman seized the man and he was landed in the police station.

The Stanton is in an isolated part of the city and a crowd of boys and men gather there nightly to worry the coal and iron policemen stationed behind the barricade. Parts of the barricade have been burned and torn down and last night a trestling was fired and the breaker was threatened with destruction.

The fire department controlled the blaze and the damage was not great. Sheriff Albert Jacobs this morning swore in twenty special deputies to be held in readiness for any emergency.

President Mitchell today expressed regret at the riotous scenes of last night and the shooting of young McCann.

"I should think," he said, "that the operators would now see the folly of employing a lot of irresponsible persons to guard their property."

The statement is made today that it is the intention of the coal companies to take advantage of the statutes of the interstate commerce law and appeal to a federal judge for an injunction to prevent the strikers from interfering with the mining and transportation of anthracite. This, it is said, would be for the purpose of off-setting legal proceedings President Mitchell threatens to bring against coal carrying roads. Mitchell and local operators discredit this report.

The operators say today that their pumps and engines are still working but they admit that nearly all of the regular firemen, engineers and pumpmen have now joined the strikers. At the collieries this morning committees of strikers met non-union workers and endeavored to persuade them to turn back. In Miners' mills one non-union fireman was roughly handled by a crowd of strike sympathizers. Because of the shooting of the boy McCann last night the attention of the strikers is now more directly centered upon the coal and iron police and they are the subject of jeers and cat calls wherever they appear. In most of the collieries in this district the non-union workers are housed all night in the yards and those of them who do go to and from their homes are guarded by special armed men.

Food supplies are carried into the barricades on trains, and three negro cooks at each mine prepare the meats for the workers. No attempt is being made to mine coal anywhere in the district, all attention being given to keeping the engines and pumps working to prevent floods.

Sheriff Jacob's deputies this morning were distributed at various collieries where trouble is expected. They will simply remain on the scene and in case of trouble, read the riot act and order mobs to disperse.

Hazleton, Pa., June 6.—There is no change in the strike situation this morning. A party of strikers met a number of non-union men at Drifton this morning and turned them back. Another batch of 300 deputies is looked for.

Mahoney City, Pa., June 6.—Today finds little change in the strike situation throughout the Schuylkill district. The Philadelphia and Reading company continues to flood the region with deputies and strike breakers.

Bluefield, W. Va., June 6.—Tomorrow is the day that the United Mine Workers in Virginia and West Virginia are to strike. The indications now are that a large per cent will come out. Swarms of organizers are in the field and there is nothing but strike talk.

New York, June 6.—Though the law upon which the resolution of the New York Board of Trade was based, has been repealed, namely that President Roosevelt appoint a commission to investigate and settle the coal strike, the Board has received a letter from Secretary Cortelyou saying:

"Your letter of the 4th with enclosures received. The section you refer to was repealed by act of June 1, 1898, but the President will be glad to see your commission if they should decide to come over.

(Signed) "GEO. B. CORTELYOU, Secretary to the President."

VIOLENCE

Resorted to by Providence Street Car Men—Numerous Arrests Quelled Rioters Finally.

Providence, R. I., June 6.—The street railway strike took a violent form last night. Crowds of men blocked the streets and hooted and jeered at the officers and passengers of cars, hurling missiles through windows, cutting trolley ropes and defacing with knives the interior fittings of cars. The officers freely used their clubs. In half a dozen individual riots mounted men charged the crowds and 25 arrests were made.

The initial cause of the disturbance was the parade of about 300 striking conductors and motormen. The line of march led up the main thoroughfare where a crowd soon gathered. Motormen and conductors on the cars which followed were hissed and jeered at until a blockade gave opportunity for a demonstration.

There was instant response. The trolley was pulled off, missiles filled the air and for half an hour the thousands shouted themselves hoarse. The police were unable to gain the mastery until a number of arrests were made, which started the crowd in another direction.

Several outbreaks followed and they grew so serious that all the available police in the city were called into the business section. Toward midnight the excitement ceased and the crowd dispersed, the absence of cars eliminating the chief cause of irritation.

cut to pieces by the blows she received at the hands of the ruffians and she became insensible. While they were torturing the woman, her husband was kept under guard by members of the gang, and he was powerless to interfere. When the mob had completed its work the crowd went to the house of a neighbor of the Hanger family, aroused him from his bed and commanded him to spread throughout the neighborhood the news of the whipping and to tell that the woman was punished on account of her cruel treatment of her stepchildren.

British Ship Combine.

New York, June 6.—The proposed British ship combine will have greater tonnage than J. P. Morgan's ship trust, but with the aid of German shipping, Morgan will still hold the supremacy of the seas. The Cunard line heads the list of the British ship combines. One result of the rivalry will be a fight between the American and Canadian railroad for hauling the maritime business.

PACKERS

Preparing to Use Railway Lines in the Delivery of Meat to Chicago Customers.

Chicago, Ill., June 6.—The packing houses of Chicago are preparing to introduce more modern methods into their system of meat delivery for city trade. They will use the railway lines.

The determination to change the system is not the outcome of the recent strike, but was one of the direct causes of that strike. In the recent struggle the scheme was given a thorough and successful test. Once in effect, the packers will require but one-fourth of the present force of drivers.

The cook book is generally pretty heavy literature.

ON MILES

IS BLAME OF BETRAYING SECRETS PLACED.

OFFICIALS ARE VERY ACTIVE IN THEIR EFFORTS

NOW TO DISCOVER THE SOURCE

From Which Culberson Got Information—Excuse is Sought to Dismiss Gen. Miles.

Washington, June 6.—Inasmuch as Lieut. General Miles went to Ft. Riley with the intention of returning to Washington either on Saturday or the first of next week, the rumor that he has been recalled is not well founded. The purpose of his visit was to witness a test of the new types of field guns. It was expressly stated before his departure that he would be obliged to hurry back. Meanwhile Secretary Root is trying to discover who gave out the war records to the Senate without permission.

New York, June 6.—A Washington dispatch to the Herald says:

When the row between Lieutenant General Miles and the War Department broke out afresh on Tuesday because of the reading in the Senate by Senator Culberson, of Texas, of documents obtained from the secret files of the War Department relating to cruelties practiced by army officers in the Philippines, the principals in this Government official feud were both absent from the city, but the feud went on just the same. Secretary of War Root returned to his desk this morning to find an investigation as to how the report reached Senator Culberson in full swing, the entire War Department humming and buzzing with comment upon this latest breach of the army regulations, and the entire staff of General Miles denying that their chief had participated in the disclosures of army secrets.

General Miles is still absent, but will be called upon to state whether he has any knowledge of how the text of the charges made by Private Weir against Lieutenant Arnold and Sergeant Edwards reached the Senate from Texas.

It is bluntly stated by officials of the War Department that General Miles is suspected of having been instrumental in getting these charges before the public. No secret has been made of the suspicions against General Miles in the past. Report after report, that the Democratic Senators desired in order to prove their contention that army officers had subjected the Filipinos to cruel treatment have mysteriously appeared in the possession of Senators Culberson, Patterson and Dubois.

The War Department takes the view that the officer or employee who abstracted these reports so that they should be made public was guilty not only of violating the army regulations, but was also guilty of attacking the United States Army, of which he was a part. Hence, if General Miles had a hand in this campaign, they say, he has been attacking the army, of which he is the highest officer.

Thus far no proof has been brought against General Miles. It is all based on inference.

If the disclosure of the campaign material used by Senator Culberson should be traced to General Miles there is no doubt whatever that the Lieutenant General in command of the army will be summarily relieved of his command and retired.

Practically all of the persons through whose hands the damaging charges made by Private Weir passed have denied that they had a hand in making them public. It was also emphatically denied by General Miles' aides today that anybody at army headquarters was in collusion with Senator Culberson. General Miles may not return to Washington until after the celebration at West Point on June 11, but he will be called upon for information.

Senator Culberson, who got the Weir charges into the Congressional Record, complicated the situation today by making the following statement:

"In view of what has occurred I do not feel that I am called upon to disclose where I obtained the information I presented to the Senate during the Philippine debate last Tuesday. I will say this much, however, that I obtained the information from a reputable gentleman, who is neither directly or indirectly connected with the army or War Department."

The Miles faction in the army at army headquarters today countered on the War Department by claiming that General Miles has ordered the Court-martial of both Lieutenant Arnold and Sergeant Edwards, after first calling upon Lieutenant Arnold for an explanation, which General Miles did not consider to be satisfactory. The Miles faction contends that while these charges were made on April 10, 1901, and while Capt. West, an Inspector General of the department, had made a report recommending the Court-martialing of Sergeant Edwards, but saying that the charges did not warrant a Court-martial in Lieutenant Arnold's case, was made on August 21, 1901, the whole matter was pigeonholed in the office of the Judge Advocate General for ten months.

CULBERSON

Said Enough to Satisfy Miles, According to this Dispatch.

Kansas City, Mo., June 6.—General Miles passed through Kansas City last night on his way from Ft. Riley to Washington. While at the Union Depot he was shown an Associated Press dispatch from Washington recounting the colloquy between Senators Culberson and Beveridge on the matter of a leak of secret documents in the War Department.

After an evasion which was carried to the point of abruptly walking away to reply: "Senator Culberson seems from his questioner the General turn to have made an answer as full as one could make and as explicit as Senator Beveridge or any one could demand."

"And for yourself, General?" "I repeat that Senator Culberson seems to have made the reply for which you are asking." Whereupon the General resumed his walk, which was solely for the purpose of evading any further questioning.

ENGLAND

Guarantees Boer Delegates Safe Conduct to South Africa—Mr. Kruger's Case.

Birmingham, England, June 6.—The Post today says that the government has been negotiating with Dr. Kuyper, Dutch premier with regard to the Boer delegates in Europe, and has guaranteed them safe conduct to South Africa. On account of former President Kruger's advanced age and infirmities the Post says the government has waived the claim for his acknowledgment of British sovereignty.

HANGED

At Michigan City Prison Early This Morning Was Willis Buck Wheeler.

Michigan City, Ind., June 6.—At five minutes past midnight Willis B (Buck) Wheeler was hanged at the state prison here for the murder of Elias Burns. He died in 10 minutes. An effort was made to save Wheeler's life on the plea of insanity, but it failed. Wheeler shot his son-in-law Elias Burns, four times last September while the latter was at work in a field. Wheeler then made an attack on his divorced wife. Burns managed to reach the house, when Wheeler finally finished him with an ax, almost severing his head from his body. Wheeler shot himself next but recovered.

Her Family Knew Nothing of the Life She Had Been Leading—Girl Was Only 18.

Toledo, O., June 6.—Agnes Payne of Dayton, an inmate of a house of ill-repute is missing, and from notes she left it is thought probable that her body will be found in the river. One of the notes left was to her mother and sisters in Dayton in which she says: "I realize I will never be any more than I am now, so I am going to end all. It is not more wicked to do that than to live the life I am in. I intend to go to some place so that you will never find my body, so you won't have the trouble of burying me. Good-bye, and may God forgive."

The girl was only 18 years old, and her family knew nothing of the life she was leading here, supposing her to be honorably employed.

The cloud stretched before Fort de France and obscured the sun. The sea rose 4 feet and then fell again. Fear-clutched at the hearts of the people in the streets. They shrieked or fell on their knees in prayer. The natives believe that the island is to be destroyed. They have been fear-stricken for days. In face of the fact that Mount Pelee had been quiet for days until this morning they have been preparing for death, or pleading with the authorities to send them away.

The Horse Holds His Own.
(St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

A few years ago we were told that the bicycle and the automobile would make horses unprofitable. For a short time the prediction seemed likely to be fulfilled. But a further adjustment of conditions took place, and now it looks as if the more mechanically propelled vehicles we have the more horses we shall require. The "noble animal" is in no danger of extermination at this time.

Hoar's Plea for Humanity.
(Toledo Bee.)

Senator Hoar's masterly appeal for humanity in the Philippines debate can only be answered by Republican associates with a plea for national selfishness and brutality. His speech rings with real patriotism as Foraker's rings with false. And we believe that the sentiments expressed by the eloquent sage from Massachusetts are those of the great majority of the American people. The Republican men on horseback will do well to heed this warning from one who has devoted his life to that party.

How to Increase Wages.
(Madison Democrat.)

Congress could in a single day raise the wages—or raise the purchasing power of the wages, which is quite as well—of every workingman in the United States by lowering the tariff wall behind which the beef trust, the sugar trust, the coal trust, the steel trust and the rest make their gains by charging "what the traffic will bear." Fussing with trusts in the courts is a mere hippodrome.

D. L. Evans Hurt.

Mr. D. L. Evans, one of the oldest and best known residents of the Welsh Hills, had the misfortune to meet with an accident several days ago, which resulted in very painful, though not serious injuries. Mr. Evans, who is 70 years old, fell from the gangway in the barn to the store room a distance of four feet, injuring his right shoulder so that the arm has been rendered useless. No bones were broken and he is rapidly recovering from his injuries.

SOUTH AFRICAN WAR.

Leading Incidents of the Great Struggle Now Ended.

WHAT IT COST THE BRITISH.

To Conquer the Boers England Spent $1,114,750,000, and 280,000 Men Fought For Her—Conflict Lasted Over Two Years and a Half—What Great Britain Gets.

Oct. 11, 1899, war began in South Africa in consequence of the British government's official refusal "even to consider the peremptory demands of the Transvaal government," says the Philadelphia Press. These demands, issued Oct. 9, called on England to arbitrate her differences with the Transvaal to withdraw all her troops from South Africa and to reply within forty-eight hours.

The price that Great Britain has paid for its conquest of the South African republic in money, including the military appropriations for South Africa to the end of the fiscal year, is $1,114,750,000.

Price paid in men, officers and privates, 98,000 in gross loss from injuries in field and disease, with a net absolute reduction of British forces amounting to 28,500 men, of which number the dead total up to 22,500 and the "missing and prisoners" and the "unfit invalids" 6,000.

Great Britain's absolute loss in men amounts to more than one-half of the number of troops, 50,000, with which British military experts in 1899 believed the Boers could be conquered in a three months' war at a cost of $50,000,000.

The war has lasted nine times as long as the British war office anticipated, has cost twenty-two times as much in money and has involved at its maximum an army over five times the size of the force that was originally calculated as equal to the task of bringing the Boers to terms. The maximum British force of 250,000 men is about five times the maximum Boer force, estimated at about 50,000 men, and is almost equal in numbers to the entire Boer population of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State.

The Boer forces, according to British estimates, at their maximum, were divided as follows: Transvaalers, 28,000; Free States, 22,000; foreigners, 7,000; Cape Colony, and Natal rebels, 8,000. By the end of February, 1901, 11,000 of this force were dead, 10,000 were prisoners, and 20,000 were still in the field. By November, 1901, 10,000 were estimated still to be in the field and with a total Boer loss of killed, captured and surrendered of 9,008 men between Nov. 13, 1901, and May 5, 1902, only 902 Boers were officially "at large" when the peace negotiations were concluded.

The actual cost of the war to the Boers in money is unknown, nor are their losses in the field known with any degree of accuracy. If the total of 36,000 Boer prisoners in British hands be correct, the net loss of killed and missing among the Boers, estimating the Boer force at 60,000, will reach to 24,000.

The total number of men involved on both sides during the war amounts to nearly 500,000. Duration of the war from the invasion of Natal by the Boers on Oct. 11, 1899, to acceptance of the British terms on May 31, 1902, two years and seven months.

In exchange for this expenditure of men and material Great Britain secures in the Transvaal a state with an area of 119,139 square miles, about equal to New Mexico's 122,580 square miles, with a white population estimated at 250,000 before the war. The main resources of the Transvaal are its gold deposits, which produced an average of $80,000,000 a year just before the war and which are capable, it is believed, of a greater yield, since the available gold still in the Witwatersrand reefs has been estimated to amount to $5,500,000,000.

In the Orange Free State a less rich prize is secured. The state has an area of 48,362 square miles, but a little smaller than Louisiana's 48,720 square miles, and its white population before the war was not much over 80,000. The main industries are agricultural, but its diamond mines yield about $7,500,000 in gems annually.

October-November, 1899.—The Boers under Joubert invade Natal and on Oct. 20, at the battle of Dundee, make their first capture of British troops, which is followed by further captures on Oct. 30, and the investment of Ladysmith on Nov. 1. Mafeking and Kimberley are also invested by the Boers and the British advance from Cape Colony is checked at all points. Buller arrives at Cape Town and leaves at once for Natal.

Dec. 10-17, 1899.—The "black week of the war" for the British; Buller's campaign fails all along the line. Gatacre loses at Stormberg. Methuen at Magersfontein and Buller on the Tugela. Lord Roberts appointed commander in chief on Dec. 16, with Lord Kitchener as chief of staff.

Jan. 24-Feb. 28, 1900.—Buller again suffers a loss on the Tugela and Warren is defeated at Spion Kop, but General Roberts' forward move begins on Feb. 11, with siege of Kimberley raised on Feb. 15. Cronje's surrender on Feb. 27 and Ladysmith relieved on Feb. 28.

March 13-June 5, 1900.—Bloemfontein is occupied March 13, Mafeking relieved on May 17. Orange Free State annexed on May 28, President Kruger flees from Pretoria on May 30 and the Transvaal capital is occupied by Lord Roberts on June 5.

July-October, 1900.—British troops clear regions along the railway, but Boers win signal successes under Generals De Wet and Delarey. The Transvaal is reannexed on Sept. 1. President Kruger escapes to Lourenco Marques on Sept. 11, and Lord Roberts announces in proclamation on Sept. 13 that regular war is at an end and on Sept. 19 reports "nothing left of Boer forces but marauding bands." Oct. 20 Kruger sails for Europe.

December, 1900-May, 1901.—Lord Roberts sails for home Dec. 11, 1900, but Boer activities increase in January and February, 1901, and first peace negotiations are held on Feb. 21, 1901. General Botha rejects British terms, and war continues through spring with new vigor on the part of the Boers and with the reconcentration and blockhouse system put in operation by the British.

August-October, 1901.—On Aug. 7 Lord Kitchener proclaims banishment of all burghers who are found resisting British authorities after Sept. 15, 1901. The Boers decide to keep up the fight, and repeated invasions of Cape Colony cause martial law to be declared there on Oct. 9, two years after beginning of the war. The lines of blockhouses gridiron the Boer states, and the concentration camps policy develops a scandal owing to the high death rate.

February-May, 1902.—Great Britain refuses request of Holland government for a commission to negotiate peace, but on Feb. 22 begins peace negotiations with General Botha. March 23 the Boer leaders meet at Klerksdorp and arrange for a meeting of all the commanders at Vereeniging on May 15, and peace follows the meeting on May 31.

DEATH DEALING AUTO.

Description of Freak Electric Motor Wrecked on Staten Island.

The big auto which killed two men and seriously injured many other persons on Staten Island the other day is built on "freak" lines, says a New York dispatch to the Philadelphia Press. It is the invention of Walter C. Baker, who was operating it at the time of the accident.

Mr. Baker, who is known as a clever mechanic, planned to construct an auto that would offer the least resistance to the air. This accomplished and a tremendous propelling engine secured, he hoped to smash all motor records. The machine resembles an inverted canoe set on the axle bars of a pneumatic road wagon. The body of the auto was about twelve feet long, with the forward tip coming down to a graceful but dangerous looking point.

Just above the middle of the machine and at its thickest and highest part was a small conning tower, fitted with a small lookout just large enough to enable the driver to see clearly what was in front of him. The bottom of the machine was flat. The auto was designed to hold two men, sitting tandem, and in order to preserve a perfect balance they were strapped to their seats.

This body of the auto was placed on a frame supported by pneumatic tired wheels thirty-six inches in diameter and six feet from side to side. The body rested squarely on the axles, so that the bottom of the queerly shaped structure traveled just a trifle over eighteen inches above the ground. With its squat body, its long, boat-like appearance and its powerful wheels, the auto had more the form of a live monster than a piece of machinery. It was driven by electric power furnished by storage batteries.

RECREATION FOR SOLDIERS.

Movement Started by the French Minister of War.

The military authorities in France are beginning to realize that much remains to be done in the matter of providing men serving under the colors with healthy recreation, says the Paris Messenger. As a matter of fact in almost every regiment at the present time soldiers have little choice to make as to how to spend their spare time. They can either stay in barracks and be called upon for extra fatigue duties or go out to wander aimlessly about the streets of the garrison town or spend three or four hours in the taverns.

General Andre, minister of war, has now sent a circular letter to the generals commanding the twenty army corps asking them to consider the question of the organization of recreation and reading rooms in barracks in order to provide the men with a "moralizing atmosphere." Private initiative had already taken a step in this direction and had provided a certain number of games of draughts, chess, etc., together with outdoor games, for the use of soldiers in barracks, and in one or two towns soldiers' clubs have been opened. Now that the authorities are taking the matter in hand much good may be effected in this direction.

The Limitations of Morgan.

Swing your fleet into battle line, Steam them to Sandy Hook, Flying the flag of a Tank combine Despite of a Gaze or Cook, Eat tremble, Pierp, in your inmost hold, For the brightest of floating gems Remains unbought by your haunted gold—The fleet of the sparkling Thames.

See where they ride, Britannia's pride, By the pier of the Ancient Swan, Or each unto each in their quarters tied For Warring to gaze upon, Or Jockey's race so swift as theirs On the Hudson ever seen; Never a funnel of Brooklyn wears Their sweet, aesthetic green.

"Tween bridges they still shall snort and dart, Quaint, rheumatics, old, Ever the joy of the empire's heart, Not to be bought with gold, So, hey for the gorgeous, plush saloon And the smoke when their chimneys dip! Hey for the fiddle and loud bassoon, And hey for the moonlight trip.

A pean sounds by the azure stream, From Lime's to Richmond Hill; The great free fleet is the only theme Of Thomas or Dick or Bill, Go, buy your best from the world afloat Or Jockey's Sham's or Ham's, But London's barred; the citizen's boat Shall never be Uncle Sam's.—London Chronicle.

WEDDING

OF MR. A. T. SEYMOUR AND MISS OWENS.

Took Place Thursday Night at the Bride's Home on Church Street, This City.

Mr. A. T. Seymour of Columbus, assistant Prosecuting Attorney of Franklin county, was married Thursday evening at 9 o'clock to Miss Evelyn Owens, at the home of the bride's mother, on East Church street, about 75 being present at the ceremony, which was impressively performed by Rev. Dr. J. P. E. Kumlir of Washington, D. C., an uncle of the bride.

The cosy home was beautifully decorated, the rooms being tastefully festooned with woodbine, palms and other foliage complementing the effects of the flower decorations. The ceremony was performed in a bower of foliage fragrance.

Immediately before the ceremony the ribbon men, Messrs. Robert McCord of Iowa City, and Dr. John Molyneux of Oxford, appeared and soon afterward the mellifluous strains of the wedding march were heard, artistically played on the piano by Miss Ada Ickes. The bride radiant in her happiness, entered the parlor on the arm of Captain F. G. Warden, a life-long friend of the family, who "gave her away."

She wore white crepe de chine and looked beautiful as she stood before the altar, prepared to plight her troth to the man she loved.

Miss Alice McCune of Newark, and Miss Elizabeth Thomas of Oxford acted as bridesmaids.

The groom, attended by his cousin, Fred S. Mosteller, approached the minister, and in a few minutes, by the impressive and eloquent marriage ceremony of the Presbyterian church, A. T. Seymour and Evelyn Owens were man and wife.

After congratulations were heartily given, all present sat down to an elegant wedding supper, during which Marsh's orchestra discoursed appropriate music.

The presents received included many gifts of costly cut glass, silver and tapestries, and were very numerous.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour left at one o'clock Friday morning for a trip to California, covering a period of six weeks, after their return, being for some time at least at the Normandie, Columbus.

They were accompanied to the depot by a large crowd of well wishers, who bade them good-bye in such a hearty manner that the farewell was heard in distant parts of the city.

Those present from out-of-town included Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Seymour, and Miss Seymour, parents and sister of the groom, Prosecuting Attorney and Mrs. Ned Taylor, Second Assistant Prosecutor Karl Webber and wife, all of Columbus; Misses Seymour of Mt. Vernon, Miss Martha Molyneux of New Richmond, O., Miss George Mills of North Manchester, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. William McKelvey of Pittsburg, Dr. Grant Molyneux and Mrs. Pattie Latta of Cincinnati.

Mr. Seymour is a young man who has won for himself the confidence and respect of all who know him by his ability and genial personality. No young lawyer in the Capital City, stands higher than Gus Seymour, and his feeling is shared by hosts of friends in Newark, where he is well known.

His bride is the only daughter of the late Congressman James W. Owens, and is a young woman of charm and culture whose refined demeanor and true womanly virtues has endeared her to all who know her.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour carry with them the best wishes of all their friends, in which the Advocate most heartily joins.

BOY PREACHER.

Harry Harris, Eight Years Old, Speaks at Plymouth Church Friday Night—Lad Pays the Advocate Office a Call—A Wonderful Boy.

Harry Harris, the remarkable boy preacher, is in town. He spoke Thursday night at the Fourth street Church of Christ and is announced to speak this evening at the Plymouth Congregational church.

The lad, whose picture accompanies this article, called at the Advocate office this afternoon and talked entertainingly of his life. He is indeed a child who was asked by the reporter if he knew anything on the Boer war which has just come to a close. His face lighted up instantly and he proceeded to outline the trouble between the Boers and the English and to specify the terms of settlement of the war with clearness and accuracy that were surprising.

The child is accompanied by A. E. Harris, with whom he lives at Ottawaw, Ohio, when at home. Mr. Harris says that at the death of his mother eight years ago the boy came to his keeping and that his wife (Mrs. Harris) taught him to read and to write. At the age of three years he exhibited a remarkable fondness for Bible stories and shortly after that he began to speak in public. Last fall he began to travel.

remarkable boy and it will pay one to go to hear him. The admission to the church is free.

The child is only eight years old. He has been in school only six months in his whole life, yet he can talk intelligently on almost any subject and can quote and expound the Scriptures with remarkable ability. He knows the Bible from Genesis to Revelations and he knows it intelligently. It is not a mere memorizing of the text but an intelligent grasp of the Bible which this lad possesses. He opens the book at any page, reads the text which strikes his eye and hesitating a moment proceeds to preach. He talks in plain, but grammatical language, and his discourses abound in apt similes and pertinent illustrations.

During his call at the Advocate office this afternoon the boy preacher was questioned closely regarding many matters and in all of them he displayed an astonishing degree of learning for one of his years.

After talking freely about an abstract truth taken from the Scriptures

Harris, with whom he lives at Ottawaw, Ohio, when at home. Mr. Harris says that at the death of his mother eight years ago the boy came to his keeping and that his wife (Mrs. Harris) taught him to read and to write. At the age of three years he exhibited a remarkable fondness for Bible stories and shortly after that he began to speak in public. Last fall he began to travel.

The child recently passed the Boxwell examination but when he applied for admission into a school he was advised to remain out of school for a few years to give his body a chance to catch up with his mind. Later he will go to school.

Asked what made him start preaching the lad said:

"I couldn't help it. God came to me and told me what to do and I am doing it."

He has an answer for nearly every question that is put to him, and the replies that he gives shows that his intellect is remarkable for one of his tender years.

PAPER READ BY SUPT. HENRY C.
EYMAN

OF MASSILLON STATE HOSPITAL

At the Conference of Superintendents,
Trustees and Stewards of Ohio
Institutions at Massillon.

Massillon, Ohio, June 6.—A conference of the superintendents, trustees and stewards of the insane hospitals of the State was held at the State Hospital near this city last night. The attendance was fully up to expectations, all the various institutions being represented. The following program, previously announced, was rendered:

Surgical Operations upon the Insane, Dr. A. F. Shepherd, Dayton. Discussion opened by Drs. Harmon and Coleman.

Competitive Bidding for Supplies, O. L. Anderson, Columbus. Discussion opened by Messrs. Rochester and Austin.

Planting and Cultivation of Trees, Vines and Plants, Dr. H. C. Eyman, Massillon. Discussion opened by Dr. H. A. Tobey and J. H. Newton.

Development of the Training School, Dr. A. B. Howard, Cleveland. Discussion opened by Dr. Carpenter and General Brinkerhoff.

Congential Employment, and Interchange of products for State Institutions, Hon. H. R. Platt, Columbus. Discussion opened by Ex-Governor Foster and H. L. Morey.

Papers limited to ten minutes. Discussions five minutes.

The paper read by Dr. Eyman is one of special interest to the farmers and fruit growers of the State as well as those concerned in properly beautifying the grounds of the various State Institutions. Dr. Eyman's paper is here given in full:

Planting and Cultivation of Trees,
Vines and Plants.

By Dr. H. C. Eyman.

Probably no subject connected with our State Institutions has been so uniformly neglected by those in charge. We have been content to employ a landscape engineer for a few months during the early history of the institution, and after the walks and drives are laid out and grading partially done, trees and shrubbery are planted, the landscape engineer relieved from his duty, and we straightway forget that a horticultural department exists. I know of institutions where scarcely a single tree has been planted in twenty years, and practically no care given those already planted. The ultimate result of this course is too plain for argument. What is the remedy? It is obviously impossible for the Superintendent whose duties in looking after the buildings and grounds and visitors and place seekers, to say nothing of twelve to fifteen hundred patients, to become expert soil physicists or horticulturists, but we can each of us give the subject sufficient attention to intelligently direct an employee, whose duty in this direction should be forcibly impressed upon him.

Trees, grasses, flowers and fruits, in their natural conditions, drop seeds, resulting in a reproduction of their kind. All fruits, plants and flowers have been developed, and the evolution from their primary states has been so great that in some instances we can hardly recognize the ancestry. The original apple was a small crabbed fruit, the rose a small flower, the wonderful chrysanthemum, in some instances showing a diameter of seven or eight inches, was developed from a flower scarcely an inch in diameter. Naturally these specimens were small and of little beauty or utility. Man, by careful cultivation, has made of these native varieties, choice fruits and flowers. Nature gives us the base, but we cannot rely upon nature for development.

The basis of cultivation is manipulation of the soil, that dew and rain may penetrate easily, and further to secure the benefits of capillary attraction, and conservation of moisture. Cultivation permits circulation, allows roots of plants to penetrate readily and provides for quick assimilation of plant nutriment. Herein lies the necessity of having our plants under the care of a competent horticulturist.

Plants and trees vary in their needs, hence he must know something of soils as well as of the plants he cultivates. What we want is applied intelligence. I have known many well posted horticulturists theoretically make absolute failures because they could not apply their knowledge.

It is manifestly impracticable to give you a treatise on horticulture in a ten minute paper, but we desire at least to stimulate an interest in this subject.

FRUIT TREES.

Before anything else, the soil must be thoroughly prepared for planting. The year previous to planting you should have some kind of grain, and if possible followed by clover, which should be plowed under when you plant your trees. The trees should be planted firmly so as to withstand the wind. The land should be cultivated for a couple of years in order to keep the soil loose and mellow. After the trees have commenced bearing do not disturb the roots too much, and do not make an effort to secure large crops of vegetables in addition to your fruit. If you do you will certainly impoverish the soil to the detriment of your trees. Do not pasture your orchard, as stock, especially horses and cattle, are liable to break down the tender trees and thus destroy your orchard. These general rules apply to all classes of fruit trees, but of course different kinds of fruit demand different treatment. The apple trees should be planted thirty feet each way, cherry trees twenty feet plum and peach trees twelve feet. Plum trees may be planted in rough land, thus utilizing corners which would otherwise be valueless. Peach trees thrive best on light soil and high altitudes. Some authorities claim that winter mulching is detrimental. There is also a difference of opinion as to grass seed. Some claim that after two or three years timothy should be sowed, others that clover alone should be used for an indefinite period. For my part I am inclined to the opinion that on clay soil nothing is so beneficial as clover, but that on sandy or gravelly soil timothy can be used to advantage, after the trees have been planted three years.

Pruning is a very important item in the care of trees. Much argument has been indulged in regarding the proper time to prune. I believe the majority however favor late pruning that is from the middle of May to the middle of June. This same general rule applies to all trees, except cherry trees. These it is claimed by horticulturists should not be pruned at all. The apple should be pruned severely. The New York apple growers claim that the top of the tree should always be kept open. To use their expression the top should be so open that a goose could fly through without striking its wings. The plum can be pruned severely or not, and will do fairly well in either case.

As we cannot give special attention in this paper to all the important fruits, we will content ourselves by calling your attention to a few of those we regard as necessities rather than luxuries.

Pyrus Malus, (Native of Central Asia, introduced into this country in 1629).—The apple, the king of fruits, we regret to say, not a native of America, although like so many other foreigners finds a congenial home here. Our cultivated apples are the lineal descendants of the wild crabs of Asia, just as some of our best blood is descended from the brigands and freebooters of the old world.

So well known are the uses of the apple that it would seem superfluous to enumerate them here. Suffice it to say that no fruit can possibly fill its place as a food product. Others rank as luxuries, but the apple is a necessity and a staple. It grows almost all over the civilized world, but reaches its acme of perfection in the temperate zone. It seems strange that so few of our institutions have made any attempt to raise apples in sufficient quantities to be of real value to the hospital dietary. Ten or fifteen acres of ground devoted to this purpose would repay handsomely. The product of a single tree will sometimes sell for ten dollars, and fifty trees can be grown upon one acre.

Great care should be taken to get strong and healthy plants, and then depend upon budding or grafting for the varieties. Budding simply consists in removing a bud from a twig of the variety which we wish to propagate, and inserting it beneath the bark of the stock or young seedling tree we wish to change, and this is then held in place by tying it fast until the bud and stock have united.

Then by forcing the sap and consequent growth into this transplanted bud by preventing all other growth, we get a new tree of the desired variety. Some persons bud in June, and others late in the fall.

Grafting is usually performed during the dormant period of growth. It is performed by carefully fitting a small dormant twig or scion of the variety we wish to propagate into a cut in a stock or seedling tree which we wish to change.

Apples grow on almost any soil; it is properly prepared. Loamy soil is naturally rich in plant food, hence will need little if any fertilizer in its preparation. It should however be deeply stirred and thoroughly broken up by sub-soiling. Clay soil requires manuring as well as thorough plowing. It should be frequently stirred during the summer months. Sandy soil is not good for apple growing, and cannot be made first-class. All orchard land should be thoroughly drained and subdrained. No orchard can exist with stagnant water either on the surface or within the soil. The soil constituting the proposed orchard site should be carefully studied, and if found to be lacking in essential elements of fertility naturally to maintain a fairly vigorous woody growth, fertilizers should be added before plowing, that they may become thoroughly incorporated with the soil in preparing the land for planting.

Scientists and practical orchardists are generally agreed on the great value of rotted barnyard manure as the best for the apple orchard. Next in value, and in a concentrated form, are unleached wood ashes, which will supply to a great extent the necessary element of plant growth.

Clover grown among the trees and allowed to decay upon the ground is a most excellent fertilizer. Apple trees should be planted in the spring in most latitudes, though in the Southern States fall planting does well. While the trees are young training and shaping should be looked after, as the removal of a large limb seriously affects the tree, even though you cover the wound with wax. The form of the tree is largely a matter of taste, and need not be discussed here. It is necessary to protect your trees from mice and rabbits, as they are liable to do much damage to the young trees during the winter months.

Probably the most important of the so-called small fruits is the strawberry. By very little effort each institution can produce all the strawberries needed, and certainly there is nothing more delicious. Henry Ward Beecher said, "doubtless God could have made a better berry, but doubtless he never did." They should be planted on a gentle slope, inclining to the south. The ground should be thoroughly cultivated the year previous to planting.

In northern Ohio fall planting appears to be more or less of a failure. Our winters are too severe for the new plants, and in consequence we find most of the plants winter killed. The better way is to plow your ground in the fall, then re-plow in the spring, and work until it is in perfect condition, and then roll with a heavy roller, as it is necessary that the ground should be rather compact for the berries to do well. Plant in rows about three feet apart and about 14 inches apart in the rows. Cultivate and cut off runners until July, then when the winter sets in your plants will be strong and able to stand the severe cold. You will certainly have a good crop the succeeding year.

A few general suggestions as to the ornamental trees and shrubbery.—These should be planted during the month of April. You can commence with the very first, and plant successfully to the very last. All trees should lean slightly to the point of the compass, from whence comes your heaviest winds; in this part of the State to the southwest. Trees should be protected upon the south side for the first year or two after planting as the hot sun is liable to do much injury to the tender bark. All trees should be mulched freely for two years after planting. Do not think you have done your duty after planting the trees, but give them a little care afterwards.

Ordinary soils need to be enriched before planting. The technique of the planting will be omitted here. What are the best and most useful ornamental trees and plants?

Along driveways nothing of course equals the stately elm and the beautiful maple. The Carolina poplar is a desirable tree to plant between your elms or maples, because of its rapid growth.

For grouping the horse, chestnut, the buckeye, the tulips and the various flowering trees are most desirable. The thornless locust is a rapid grower and a beautiful tree. The catalpa has its friends, though after fifteen years it loses much of its beauty. Nothing, however, can take the place of the stately oak, and placed along side of it all other trees look like limitations. It takes several decades, however, to mature, and not all the soils will nourish it, therefore unless you have a grove of oaks handed down from your grandfather you will have to be content with ordinary limitations of this "the tree."

If I have been able to stimulate a larger interest in this most important department I shall be satisfied. "The groves were God's first temples." "The works of a person that builds begin immediately to decay while those of him who plants begin directly to improve. In this planting promises a more lasting pleasure than building, which were it to remain in equal perfection would at best begin to moulder and want repairs in imagination."

Truthfully Advertised.

The art of advertising has grown to such gigantic proportions within the past few years, and has been adopted by so many different kinds of business, that the Circuses alone do not have the field to themselves as they formerly did. However, the Tent Shows still have the field of veracity before them, very few of which confine their advertising to within the limit of actual events displayed in the Show. One exception, however, that does, is Gentry Bros. Famous shows. For many years their advertisements have been minutely correct and truthful regarding the various acts in the Show. The posters displayed by Gentry Bros this season are indeed a work of art and have attracted more than ordinary attention in this city. The date of the show is Thursday, June 12, twice daily Grounds located West Church street Admission 25 and 35 cents.

Primary Election.

The election polls of the several wards will be held at the usual voting places, unless otherwise specified. IDLEWILDE

One of the Best Features on This Week's Bill is Miss Annette Moore, Vocalist.

Those who have not yet attended the Casino at Idlewilde this week should avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing as finished a vocal artist as has ever appeared in the city on the concert or vaudeville stage. Miss Annette Moore, who is on this week's bill is a soprano with wonderful vocal capabilities. Best of all she knows how to sing and uses her voice artistically in each of her selections, embracing a repertoire ranging from rag time through ballad to grand opera and sublime oratorio. Miss Moore is happily free from mannerisms and poses which so often detract from the performance of those who would otherwise be artists. Her stage presence is of the kind, which immediately wins an audience and puts them in sympathetic touch with the song sentiment as well as the perfect vocalizing.

Miss Moore, who is the daughter of one of Chicago's substantial business men, is a lady of culture and refinement who loves her art for its own sake. She can sing and she loves to sing, which latter fact lends to an artists' efforts an intangible charm which enhances the enjoyment of those who hear.

Miss Moore will sing a new ballad this evening especially written for her.

RESIGNATION

Of Major White is Approved by Colonel Coit—Election of Successor is Ordered.

(Columbus Dispatch.)

Colonel A. B. Coit called at the adjutant general's office Thursday morning and approved the resignation of Major Will White. He also requested the adjutant general to so modify the order issued for an election of a lieutenant colonel of the regiment so as to include also the election of a major to succeed Mr. White.

Later when seen by the Dispatch, Colonel Coit said: "I have approved the resignation, it has been accepted and have ordered the election. I have nothing to say in regard to Major White's letter. I have requested the adjutant general to waive any discourtesy or breach of military etiquette.

"The nominating convention for major and lieutenant colonel will be held Friday, at the armory, between 4 and 8 p. m., and Captain Bargar will probably be nominated for lieutenant colonel and Captain Reynolds for major. As far as Major White is concerned he is out of the service and no further action will be taken."

The following officers of the regiment tendered their resignations yesterday: Captain S. S. Bellaire and Second Lieutenant Alexander Harmon, company A, Delaware; First Lieutenant S. H. Beadle, battalion adjutant, Newark.

BIGAMY

Charged Against Former Cincinnati by Wife No. 2, Who Stuck Closer Than a Brother.

Bellefontaine, O., June 6.—Divorce proceedings were instituted here yesterday by Clara Oles, who was married in Cincinnati to Albert Oles Jan. 18, 1901. The grounds on which the divorce is asked is bigamy, she claiming that Oles already had one wife when he married her.

Oles was arrested here several months ago, and when the grand jury came to investigate the case it was discovered, it is said, that although the license had been secured in Logan county, the marriage had taken place in Hamilton county and any prosecution for bigamy would have to be started there.

Wife No. 2, of Bellefontaine, stuck close to her husband through the ordeal, but a short time ago he left her and went to Coriopolis, Allegheny county, Pa., where he is said to be now living with his first wife.

FIRM FOUNDATION.

Nothing Can Undermine It In Newark.

People are sometimes slow to recognize true merit, and they cannot be blamed, for so many have been humbugged in the past. The experience of hundreds of Newark residents expressed publicly through newspapers and other sources, places Doan's Kidney Pills on a firm foundation here.

Mr. John Nelson of 41 Thirteenth street says: "When I enlisted in the 27th Ohio Co. Volunteers under Captain Nichols, I passed medical inspection creditably. When I was discharged my back bothered me and at intervals ever after I had attacks of kidney complaint. My back was weak and painful across the loins, and I was also greatly distressed by urinary weakness. I took every kind of medicine but it availed me nothing. I tried Doan's Kidney Pills, getting a box at Crayton's drug store. After I used them my back ceased to ache and felt stronger. Besides mending my back they also corrected the urinary weakness. To a man 51 years of age this is a great comfort."

REUNION

Of the Larimore-Hawkins Families At- tended by 250—The Program— Election of Officers.

About 250 people attended the Larimore-Hawkins reunion at the home of Mr. James Bryan near Lock and the gathering was one of the most enjoyable and successful yet held.

A program was rendered, beginning in the morning, consisting of recitations, songs and addresses.

Dr. F. C. Larimore, of Mt. Vernon read a paper on the history of the Larimore family. The history was complete and made a very interesting paper. Mr. Isaac Larimore of Centerburg, delivered a splendid address. A noon dinner was served, the tables being spread under the trees. After the meal the program was continued. Mr. Robert Larimore, historian of the Larimore-Hawkins society, read an account of the members who have passed away in the past year.

Mrs. Larimore of Millersburg, also delivered a very interesting address. The oldest members of the families present were Mr. Joseph Hawkins aged 80, and Mr. Isaac Larimore, aged 84. Business was then taken up and the following officers were elected:

President, Dr. F. C. Larimore, Mt. Vernon.

Secretary, Mr. Yost, Homer.

Treasurer, James Hawkins, Centerburg.

The next annual reunion will be held at the home of Mr. Isaac Larimore near Centerburg, the first Wednesday in June, 1903.

Carefully Prepared Census Now Being Taken and Advocate Readers Have An Opportunity

To Secure a Little Money Without Effort and Without Ex- pense—The Only Condition is Each Guess Must be Accom- panied by Paid in Advance Subscription to the Daily Advocate for Five Weeks.

The sum of Two Hundred Dollars in Gold has been deposited in the bank to the Advocate's credit for free distribution among the readers of the Daily Advocate upon conditions which will permit every subscriber to participate.

This money will be given in thirty-five prizes to those who will do a lit- tle figuring and place the result of their calculations on a coupon clipped from the Advocate and deposit it at this office with a paid in advance sub- scription to the Daily Advocate for five weeks. In other words any sub- scriber may take part in the contest and free distribution of prizes by pay- ing five weeks in advance for the paper, (all arrearages must first be settled) or any new subscriber may send his estimate to this office by pay- ing 50 cents, for which sum the Daily Advocate will be sent to any address in the city of the United States for a period of five weeks.

ONE MAY GUESS AS OFTEN AS HE CHOOSES providing each guess or estimate is accompanied by 50 cents for five weeks' subscription to the paper.

Now as to the nature of the contest:

The Advocate has several reputable persons engaged in taking the census of Newark. The work is being done with greater accuracy and more care than was the official census of 1900. Every building in the city (none beyond the corporation lines) is being visited and a careful record is being made of the names and number of the dwellers in each building. The work is being done by experienced census takers and under the system em- ployed nobody can escape and none can be duplicated. The result will show the exact population of Newark on June 1, 1902.

In 1890 Newark had a population of 14,289, and the official census of 1900 showed that there were 18,157 people living in Newark two years ago. WHAT IS THE POPULATION OF THIS THRIVING LITTLE CITY TODAY? Here is a pointer that will help you to arrive at an intelligent conclusion. The school enumerators have just reported that there are 1,070 school youth between the ages of 6 and 21 year living in Newark.

The census taking is being done without collusion among the enumer- ators, who each report to a gentleman in another city who makes a special- ty of just such work as this. No person in the Advocate office will see any report or will know any more about the result than any reader of the pa- per until the time for distribution of the fund, but to guard against what might appear to be partiality, a rule has been established that no employe of the Advocate Company can participate in the contest directly or indi- rectly.

Send your estimate of what the population of Newark was on June 1, 1902 (men, women and children included) with 50 cents to the Advocate Printing Company, Newark, Ohio, not later than 12 o'clock noon, August 16, 1902. The estimate must be made on a coupon clipped from the Advocate, and be mailed or left at the Advocate counting room with remittance for which the paper will be sent to any address designated. Before any old subscriber can participate in the contest all indebtedness for past subscrip- tion must be paid.

This contest is started primarily to stimulate the interest of our peo- ple in the growth of our popular little city, more intimately familiarize them with its progress and prosperity, and at the same time provide an in- teresting and intellectual contest in which every one has an equal oppor- tunity to secure one of 35 cash prizes, and by which the paper may be in- troduced into new homes.

The Advocate is the best and most popular paper in Newark and once a subscriber in nine of ten cases, always a subscriber. John Champan was known as Johnny Appleseed in the early decades of the 19th century. A vast number of the trees planted by him are bearing fruit today. Mr. Bushnell will exhibit the pocketbook at the next meeting of the Richland County Historical Society.

CORN AND WHEAT

The Weekly Report of Weather Bu- reau as to Conditions and Prospects.

The following general summary of climate and crop conditions in the Ohio, Valley and elsewhere is given in the weekly bulletin issued by the weather bureau:

The week ending June 2 was abnor- mally cool in the lower Missouri, cen- tral Mississippi and Ohio valleys and on the Atlantic coast northward of the Carolinas. Frosts, more or less destructive, occurred from the 27th to the 29th in the Lake region, Ohio Valley, Tennessee, western North Carolina, over the interior portions of the Middle Atlantic states and gen- erally throughout New England. In nearly all districts east of the Rocky Mountains crop growth has been checked by low temperatures, and rains have interfered with farm work in Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas.

Corn has made slow growth over most of the corn belt, and has suf- fered injury from frost in the Ohio Valley and Lake region.

Winter wheat has made favorable progress in the states of the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys, and in portions of the lower Ohio Valley. The crop has made splendid growth in Nebraska, and a general improve- ment is reported from the upper Lake region. Some complaints of rust are received from portions of Kansas, Oklahoma, and Missouri and of lodging in the last-named state. In Tennessee, Kentucky, the upper Ohio Valley, and the Middle Atlantic states the previously reported unfavorable condition continues; thin stands and heading low being generally indicated.

The outlook for oats continues un- favorable from the Middle Atlantic states and Ohio Valley southward to the east Gulf and South Atlantic coast.

Is the Work the British Doctors are Doing at 100 W. Main st. by Giving Their Services Free of Charge and Thus Demonstrating Their Ability to Cure Many Maladies that are Called Incurable.

A staff of eminent physicians and surgeons from the British Medical Institute have, at the urgent solicitation of a large number of patients under their care in this country, decided to establish a permanent branch of the Institute in this city. A location has been secured at Flat 2, Avalon Flats, 100 W. Main street (west end entrance).

These eminent gentlemen have decided to give their services entirely free for three months (medicines excepted) to all invalids who call upon them for treatment between now and June 14. These services consist not only of consultation, examination and advice, but also of all minor surgical operations.

The object in pursuing this course is to become rapidly and personally acquainted with the sick and afflicted, and under no conditions will any charge whatever be made for any services rendered for three months to all who call before June 14.

The doctors treat all forms of disease and deformities, and guarantee a cure in every case they undertake. At the first interview a thorough examination is made, and, if incurable, you are frankly and kindly told so; also advised against spending your money for useless treatment.

Male and female weakness, catarrh and catarrhal deafness, also rupture, gonorrhea, cancer, catarrh of the eye, cross-eyes, all diseases of the rectum and skin are positively cured by their new treatment. Cases requiring it are diagnosed by X-ray method.

The chief associate surgeon of the Institute, will be in personal charge. Hours 9 to 8 Sundays 10 to 1.

GRANVILLE

CURFEW ORDINANCE IS TO BE ENFORCED.

Literary Society Commencement—The Baccalaureate Sermon by Dr. Hunt Preached Sunday.

Granville, O., June 6.—Several years ago a curfew ordinance was passed by the village council, whereby it was ordained that all boys under the age of sixteen years were required to be at their homes after 8 o'clock in the evening. The ordinance, however, has not been enforced, and for a long time the boys have been in the habit of congregating on the streets at night and in some cases have raised considerable disturbance. Numerous complaints have been made to Marshal James of late regarding the conduct of the boys, and he has issued orders that all boys must be off the streets after 8 o'clock in the evening.

The Cicero Literary Society held its commencement on Thursday evening in Cicero Hall. The Cicero graduates of Doane academy were C. E. Boyer, A. H. Hixon, G. E. Howell, W. C. Hampton, F. G. Ornstott, P. D. Woods, H. B. Wright. The program was as follows:

Declamation, A. H. Hixon, Essay, F. G. Ornstott.

Solo, Frank Amos, accompanied by Miss Dorothy Kibler.

Oration, W. B. Wright.

Eulogy, C. E. Boyer.

Solo, Miss Pearl Ferguson.

Presentation of diplomas, Prof. E. L. Hudson.

Shield, G. E. Howell W. C. Hampton.

In connection with the baccalaureate sermon which is to be preached on Sunday morning by Dr. Emery Hunt, president of Denison university a beautiful song service by the choir (Sanctus, by Gounod) will be given. Miss Clara Turpin, the soprano soloist of Greenville, O., who has been singing in Dayton and who also sang at the Cincinnati May Festival, will take the leading solo. At the evening service the Te Deum, by Harry Rowe Shelley, will be rendered by the choir, while the principal solos will be by Mr. Harry Wild, basso of Columbus, and Miss Evelyn Thomas of Columbus.

NOVEL COOLING DEVICE.

Moist Rooms in Summer Cooled by Professor Moore's Machine.

The possibility of keeping living rooms at a temperature of 70 to 72 degrees in the hottest weather, which means practically an end to summer suffering from heat, is held out by Professor Willis L. Moore, chief of the weather bureau at Washington, who recently filed application for a patent on what he calls a gravity air cooling dry and purifying machine, says the Chicago Record-Herald. The new apparatus is the result of several years of study and experiment. Professor Moore believes the invention to be of immense scientific and practical value. The cost of the machine will be so small that it will be within the reach of nearly all, so that the horrors of sweltering in stuffy rooms of the city during midsummer promises to be materially lessened. Professor Moore said:

"I believe that my machine solves the problem of a cheap, harmless and automatically working apparatus for cooling rooms. It is so simple that any one can manipulate it. It can be moved from room to room. It is also safely and above all, can be constructed so cheaply that it will be within the means of practically every one to obtain. There will be no trouble in keeping a room at a temperature of between 70 and 72, no matter how hot it may be under normal conditions.

"A room can be maintained at a temperature of 72 in the hottest weather and with humidity at the highest point. Chemicals are used in combination with pipes that bring in air from the outside. I have worked on this scheme for the last three years and have examined over 300 patents relating to the subject of machines for cooling rooms. None has even been introduced into general use."

The scheme is based on a system of evaporation. Professor Moore says that the apparatus will be especially adapted for the great arid and subarid regions of the west, where there is great humidity in the air and wonderful efficiency in evaporation.
